

College Problem Statement

Author: Shalin Geddis

Problem Statement: Many students often struggle to maintain a healthy balance between academics, social life, and personal well-being due to their workloads and responsibilities, which later lead to stress and not managing time effectively. Increasing academic pressures and extracurricular commitments make managing time effectively, staying organized, and prioritizing self-care challenging.